July 25th.—Sabstantially, Pennsylvania on for the purpose. Democratic platform, Aug. 1st.

John Griffin Carlisle was born September 5, 1835, in Kenton county, Ky. just across the river from Cincinnati, After receiving a good academic education he studied law with Hon, Jno. W. Stevenson and Judge Wm. B. Kinkead, and began the practice in 1857. He was elected to the legislature in 1859, to the state senate in 1866 and again in 1869, resigning in 1871 to make the race for lieutenant govsince, and last Mouday begun his fourth term in that body. He is thoroughly posted on all the great political questions of the day, and will make a safe, conservative, and able presiding The CHRONICLE has all along openly Speakership, and we are therefore gratified at his being chosen for the position. We deprecated the factional tone that was thrown into the strugour standing army. gle, because we believed it detrimental "The Bread Winners," as we take it to the interest of the Democracy and we hope that it has kindled no flame reaction against republican instituthat will work the party's ruin in the tions and liberal ideas generally that coming presidential contest. Mr. Caris fast finding a lodgment with the lisle's election cannot be construed as a triumph of free trade ideas; he is is not a plea for aristocratic governnot an exponent of such views and there were many ballots cast for him on purely personal grounds. Randall was supposed to be the embodiment perior honesty dwell only in the palaof high tariff principles and opposed ces of the wealthy, while among the to all tariff reform, though he had poorer classes all knavery and ruffianseveral times declared the contrary ism has its abiding place. The political practices in this it was only natural that their inclination should have been towards the great nation, to his way of thinking, Speaker Carlisle will show what his Southern canditate. This was notably true of the Georgia delegation and that

But conceding it as a fact that Carlisle's election signifies a ponderance of free trade or "tariff for revenue only" views in the Democratic party, the result of the contest has proven that it will not do to introduce such an issue into the presidential election. If the supporters of Carlisle are all free traders, then the opposition to him is solidly arrayed against such notions and the opposition constituted a large portion of the vote cast. Certainly it so considerable a part of the Democ racy be forced to oppose the party platform there can be but little hope for the success of its candidates. If the vote for and against Carlisle indicates the division on the tariff issue within the party, then there is indeed an alarming division on that subject and the policy of the party would be to let the tariff issue go to the demnition bow-wows. It is sufficiently significant that Carlisle never received a single vote from New York and only two from Ohio. Those are pivotal states, and without the tormer a Democratic President is an impossibility. If the major portion of the Democratic party favors a tariff for revenue only, which we do not believe, then and regulations affecting the commerthat all powerful majority can determine whether or not it is willing to ple, ought never to be made, unle wreck the prospects of the party for the sake of advocating such a principle. der the existing circumstances, such If the vote for Carlisle indicates the changes would not be favorably received by any considerable number of full strength of the free trade element, form embodying such principles will reforms are undoubtedly necessary, lose us New York and Ohio, which is and it will be your duty after careful equivalent to saying that it will lose examination of the whole subject in all its bearings, to decide how far they us the Presidency. But we have been speaking hypothmade by the next national conyention, will be a re-utterance of the Ohio plank. The tariff must be reduced to a revenue basis, the rights of the tax-payer demand it, but the manufacturing interest of the country must not be threatened with overthrow. The Chronicle will support the Democratic nominee for the Presidency on any platform, as opposed to the Republican candidate, but while a decision of the majority may command our silent acquiesence it cannot change our honest opinion.
